

My Regret

Am I a toy so carelessly tossed aside
Would I not shelter you - wont you come in and hide
You awoke the sleeping dragon she was comfortable in her golden dream
The door now unlocked, key around your neck, things aren't as they seem

Your face has faded
Your feelings jaded
Why did you unlock the door

Your face has faded
Your feelings jaded
There must be something more

Is this the end my friend, will you never look upon me again
The boy with the mirror eyes and the unmanageable hair
Your silence echoes like a scream to me, a pierced reaction
You awoke the beast, now let her feast, you are the main attraction

My memory hasn't faded
Look at what you have created

You tinker with your new love
We are your old loves tossed aside
Remember us your fair ladies
When fate begins to turns your tide
Its us you will remember for our paths will cross again
For once the stars aligned and drew us to that special place my friend

My memory hasn't faded
Look at what you have created